Oberweis Asset Management, Inc. Introduces New Emerging Markets Strategy

LISLE, IL, May 1, 2018— Oberweis Asset Management, Inc. (OAM) and The Oberweis Funds are pleased to announce the launch of the Oberweis Emerging Markets Strategy. This new strategy focuses on small-capitalization emerging markets equities that have strong balance sheets, ample growth opportunities, durable competitive advantages and stable management teams. According to the International Monetary Fund (IMF), developing countries hold 85% of the world's population and generate 60% of global GDP. Backed by relatively healthy demographics, rising labor productivity, increasing consumer spending and infrastructure investments, OAM believes those developing countries should continue to generate attractive long-term economic growth and become an increasingly important part of investors' portfolios. This is particularly the case with small-cap emerging markets firms, which are typically more exposed to their respective countries' growth than large-cap firms that often serve global markets. Moreover, OAM thinks those small-cap emerging markets equities are periodically mispriced due to scant analyst coverage and lack of liquidity. This new strategy is designed to exploit that market inefficiency through careful, internally-produced research and patient investing. Emerging markets specialists Mark Weber, CFA and Terry Tian have joined OAM to manage the strategy. They will also be supported by the firm's Hong Kong-based China investment team. The Oberweis Emerging Markets Strategy will be available as a no-load mutual fund with both investor and institutional share classes, available through fee-based investment advisors or to individual investors subject to the fund's minimum investment (tickers: OBEMX - OIEMX), as well as via institutional separate accounts.

Jim Oberweis, OAM's President and Chief Investment Officer, said, "As a specialized small-cap investor, we are excited to expand our suite of offerings to include an emerging markets strategy using an investment process based on behavioral finance, adapted for the unique attributes of the emerging markets asset class. This new fund furthers our vision of becoming the premier investment firm for small-cap behavioral finance investing – domestically and internationally, for both growth and value equities."

About Oberweis Asset Management, Inc.
Oberweis Asset Management, Inc. is an independent investment management firm that invests in small- and mid-cap companies around the globe. We specialize in uncovering mispriced equities, combining behavioral finance with fundamental bottom-up research. Serving institutional investors and our own proprietary family of mutual funds for over 25 years, we focus exclusively on identifying opportunities where change results in temporary misunderstanding of a company's true value, providing the potential for superior investment results over the long term.
