Management’s Discussion of Fund Performance

- For the year ended December 31, 2025, the Fund returned 40.88%, significantly outperforming its benchmarked index, the MSCI China Index, which returned 31.17%.
- The Chinese market’s strong performance in 2025 — outpacing both emerging and developed market indices — was underpinned by three forces: the resilience of China’s macroeconomic fundamentals, the government’s strategic recalibration of the capital market’s role, and the early but meaningful breakthroughs in innovation led by Chinese companies such as DeepSeek.
- At the sector level, consumer discretionary, industrials, and financials contributed to performance while communication services, consumer staples, and energy were top detractors.
- At the stock level, Pop Mart International (9992 HK), Alibaba (BABA), and Tencent Holdings (0700 HK) were among the top contributors to performance; Meituan (3690 HK), VNET Group (VNET), and Trip.com Group (TCOM) were among the top detractors.

The Fund's past performance is not a good predictor of the Fund's future performance.

The Fund's performance assumes the reinvestment of all dividends and all capital gains. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and, unlike the Fund's returns, do not reflect any fees or expenses. If such fees and expenses were included in the Index returns, the performance would have been lower. Please note that one cannot invest directly in an unmanaged index.

The MSCI China Net Index is a free float-adjusted market capitalization-weighted index of Chinese equities that include China-affiliated corporations and H shares listed on the Hong Kong Exchange, and B shares listed on the Shanghai and Shenzhen exchanges and P chips and foreign listings with minimum dividends reinvested net of withholding tax. The MSCI China Net Index is unmanaged and is not available for investment.
